Committee Volunteers Needed

Involvement is the key to growth and development. The core and essence of any member organization like IIMC rests with its volunteers. Volunteers are needed to help an organization in many ways: fundraising, conference planning, coordinating special projects and developing new ideas. Each project depends on the effort put forth by the volunteers. As a volunteer, working on an IIMC Committee conveys a pledge that the members are committed to helping their Organization's development and looking out for its present and future interests.

"IIMC provides a setting for its members where they can enhance their skills and proficiency toward becoming effective leaders," said IIMC Executive Director Chris Shalby. "Volunteering for a Committee is an excellent way for members to use their creative abilities and talents to help the system."

IIMC needs Committee members who are prepared to work. Committees meet during the Annual Conference to review the previous year's accomplishments, and discuss strategies and objectives for the upcoming year. You do not have to attend the Conference to serve on a Committee. Most Committee work is done throughout the year through teleconferences, E-mail or mail. IIMC's growth is attributable to you -- the members.

Put your input and insight to good use by volunteering for Committee work.
